HOW DO I BREAK UP WITH MY BANK?

- 1 Choose a new credit union or community bank.
- 2 Open your new account with a small deposit while keeping your old account open as you switch over. Order new checks, ATM card, credit card.
- 3 List all your automatic deposits and payments.
- 4 Move automatic deposits (you may need to provide a voided check from your new account). Ask for the date the payment to your new account will take place.
- 5 Move automatic withdrawals to your new account (you will likely need to provide the routing and account numbers at the bottom of your new checks). Ask for the date on which the payments from your new account will begin. Leave a small amount of cash in your old account for a month or two just in case you overlooked an auto withdrawal, a check you wrote that hadn't been cashed, or payment you forgot.
- 6 Save records from your old account (statements, cancelled checks, emails or screenshots).
- 7 Transfer the final funds from your old bank to your new account. Electronic transfer is usually fast and safe.
- 8 Close your old account. Once the funds are out, follow the bank's procedures for closing accounts. Save written confirmation that your account is closed.
- 9 Tell your old bank in writing why you are breaking up with them!
- 10 Encourage everyone you know to switch too! Demand that groups, schools and organizations that you belong to also switch to a credit union or community bank.
